A lovely hotel but due to strike action we had issues

The hotel was lovely and staff very friendly however due to the strike action affecting a number of hotels in Reykjavik we had to use taxis to travel out each day for dinner. We were promised by our tour operator TUI two days prior to our holiday that we would receive compensation each day amounting to 6,000 ISK which would be provided by the hotel. The intention being this would assist us to purchase taxis to travel to other restaurants. However upon our arrival the hotel staff had no awareness of this arrangement. We have therefore been forced to spend additional funds in order to eat out at alternate locations. This was disappointing as taxis in Reykjavik are very expensive.

"Sentiment": "Neutral",

"Urgency": "High Priority",

"Key words": ["strike action", "compensation", "TUI", "additional expense", "lack of communication"],

"Explanation": "The review is neutral because the guest had a good impression of the hotel and its staff, but was disappointed due to issues related to a strike action and a lack of communication between their tour operator (TUI) and the hotel regarding compensation. This resulted in unexpected additional expenses for the guest. Since it involves a misunderstanding regarding financial compensation and potential reputational damage, this issue is of high priority and should be addressed promptly."

Reaction to accident

Had an accident of hair burning in restaurant because of stupid placement of decoration - a tea candle placed right above the cheese and ham station. Reported immediately to the waiting staff but no apologies or even reaction from the management
